Bonner Miller Cutting, BFA (Tulane) holds a Masters of Music from McNeese State University, LA. A retired piano teacher, she continues to judge festivals, auditions and competitions for music organizations in the Houston area. She has presented papers on various aspects of the Shakespeare authorship question at Concordia University in Portland, OR, and at the joint conferences of the Shakespeare Fellowship and the Shakespeare Oxford Society.

Frank Davis, MD, is a Shakespeare scholar and regular contributor to The Oxfordian and the Shakespeare Oxford Newsletter. He did his undergraduate work at Emory University and graduated M.D. from Tulane University in 1960. His interest in Shakespeare came from his father; his interest in the authorship question from becoming friends with Charlton Ogburn, Jr. in 1994.

Sabrina Feldman manages the Planetary Science Instrument Development Office at the NASA Jet Propulsion Laboratory, and is also a Co-Investigator for the “CheMin” X-Ray Diffraction instrument on the 2011 Mars Science Laboratory mission. She holds a Ph.D. in Physics from U.C. Berkeley (1996). Dr. Feldman lives in Pasadena, California with her husband Jason and her two children, Alexandra (10) and Edward (6).

Robin Fox is University Professor of Social Theory at Rutgers University where he founded the anthropology department in 1967. Educated in England and the USA he did field research in Ireland, the Pueblos of the Southwest, and with macaque monkeys in Bermuda. He is the author of seventeen books including, The Imperial Animal (with Lionel Tiger), and Kinship and Marriage, the most widely used anthropology text in the world. His latest book is The Tribal Imagination (Harvard UP 2011). www.robinfoxbooks.com. A festschrift in his honor is being prepared by some members of the Shakespeare Oxford Society.

Kevin Gilvary is a British Oxfordian scholar and author/editor of the well-received study, Dating Shakespeare's Plays (De Vere Society, 2011). He is a frequent contributor to the De Vere Society Newsletter (UK).

W. Ron Hess is the author of The Dark Side of Shakespeare, a trilogy about the Earl of Oxford in Italy. He is a frequent contributor to The Oxfordian and The Shakespeare Oxford Newsletter and is the writer/editor of a regular email column.

Ramon Jiménez is the author of two books on Julius Caesar and the Roman Republic, Caesar Against the Celts and Caesar Against Rome, both book-club selections. He has been an Oxfordian since reading This Star of England in high school. In the last few years more than a dozen of his articles and book reviews have appeared in the Shakespeare Oxford Newsletter and The Oxfordian. His particular interest has been in demonstrating that several anonymous plays, pre-dating the first Shakespeare quartos, were actually Oxford's earliest versions of canonical plays. Jiménez has a degree in English from U.C.L.A. and lives in Berkeley, California.

Lamberto Tassinari is an Italian scholar and author of John Florio: The Man Who Was Shakespeare (Giano Books 2008). After graduating in Philosophy from the University of Florence, he lived in Rome, Milan and Turin where he worked as a teacher and for several publishing companies. He moved to Montreal in 1981 where he helped found ViceVersa and served as its director until 1997. From 1982-2007 he taught Italian language and literature at the Université de Montréal.

Richard M. Waugaman, M.D. is Clinical Professor of Psychiatry at Georgetown University School of Medicine. Forty of his 110 publications are on Shakespeare and on the psychology of pseudonymity. His website is www.oxfreudian.com.
